

Situation: How can you maintain a professional website without having to be a computer programmer?

Creative Tool: Content Management System

Idea: Tilson Homes' creative promise is that they can build over 100 different floor-plans on private lots throughout Texas. Their website is an integral part of their creative campaign. It allows users to view all of the available plans as well as determine prices for a particular region. Zanzico built the website for Tilson using our proprietary Content Management System (CMS). The site allows Tilson employees to maintain the site without having to know HTML code or JavaScript. Users maintain the website through a secure administration area. Adding a new page or changing an existing page is as easy as filling out an online form.
